Subject:	Possibility to hook individual extension-css to css temp file -> css new scriptmerger Please read the dicription
Description
This is not a dublicate from 14568. The problem is still there. Its not possible to include the css code which is generated by templavoila in the temp css file. The script merger function in > 4.4beta1 still ignore the css code. Currently the core is not able to implement external css file (e.g. templavoila) to the css temp file. I spoke to Tolleiv Nietsch about this problem. He told me that there is no facility in the core to transfer css data (and also js) to the temp file(s). I think that this is necessary to provide a clean integration into the new scriptmerging. (issue imported from #M14584)

Hi Christian,

#22653 is still open. No one said it's solved.

What is the difference between #22653, #22653 and this one?

#2 - 2010-06-01 23:09 - Christian Leicht

its the same but its not possible to a notice in 14568 after you set it to resolved or finished.

I did not set #22653 to resolved. You should still be able to comment on that issue.

Can you confirm that?

Yes, I just would have liked to hear that from Christian.

However, I can also live without that.
