| Subject: | CLI Help throws exception if related comments are not available |
| Description | |

The flow3:help:help command parses "see" annotations of the commands and retrieves their method description.
This leads to an exception if the target command is not available (e.g. if the respective package is not loaded).
For example: flow3 help package:create throw an exception if the kickstarter package is not installed.

[BUGFIX] CLI Help throws exception if related comments are not available

The flow3:help:help command parses @see annotations of the commands and retrieves the method description of related commands.
This leads to an exception if the target command is not available (e.g. if the respective package is not loaded).

This change fixes this by replacing the short description with "Command not available" in those cases.
