[FEATURE] (Core): Stateless AJAX Widgets

Currently an AJAX Widget stores the `WidgetContext` in the `WidgetContextHolder` which again puts it in the current user session.

This change adds a property "stateless" to the `AbstractWidgetViewHelper`. If that's TRUE, the widget context won't be stored in the session anymore. Instead, the `WidgetRequestBuilder` then expects the "internal argument" `__widgetContext` to be specified (with a valid HMAC appended).

The `Widget Link/Uri-Viewhelpers` now add the serialized and HMAC'ed `WidgetContext` to the generated URI if the new argument "includeWidgetContext" is set.

Besides this change renames the `widgetId` argument from "typo3-fluid-widget-id" to "__widgetId" as discussed.

Note: This would be a breaking change, if you relied on that specific GET argument (which is however very unlikely)!

Lastly the `WidgetRequestBuilder` now interprets merged GET + POST arguments instead of relying on GET only. This makes it possible to pass the `widgetId/Context` via POST.
