[FEATURE] Add translation support to SelectViewHelper

The change adds support for translation of the options labels produced in SelectViewHelper.

The view helper can be given a "translate" argument with configuration on how to translate option labels. The array can have the following keys:

- "by" defines if translation by message id or original label is to be used ("id" or "label")
- "using" defines if the option tag's "value" or "label" should be used as translation input, defaults to "value"
- "locale" defines the locale identifier to use, optional, defaults to current locale
- "source" defines the translation source name, optional, defaults to "Main"
- "package" defines the package key of the translation source, optional, defaults to current package
- "prefix" optionally defines a prefix to use for the message id
