Subject:	Node Reordering needs to take unpersisted node order changes into account
Description

he error can be reproduced in the following way:

  - First, create some nodes, and persist them.
  - Then, move a node after another one, filling the LAST free sorting index between the nodes. Do NOT persist after that.
  - After that, try to again move a node to this spot. In this case, we need to renumber the node indices, and the system needs to take the before-moved node into account as well.

The bug tested by this testcase led to wrong orderings on the flow3org website in the documentation part under some circumstances.
