Subject:	Implement contextOverrides for all TypoScript objects
Description
most TypoScript objects operate on the TypoScript context, which is multivalued by now. Still, it would be very helpful to manipulate this context before a TypoScript object is rendered. For this, we should add a new property "contextOverrides" in the abstract TypoScript object; which is then applied before evaluate() is called.

[FEATURE] Support @override for manipulating the TypoScript context

It is helpful to be able to manipulate the TypoScript context before a certain TypoScript object is called. This allows for aliasing of context variables in Eel expressions.

Now, one can specify the context overrides using the @override meta-property which is evaluated on every TypoScript object.

Example:

foo = NameFormatter
foo.@override.fullName = ${firstName + ' ' + lastName}
