Subject:	Rename title attribute of content types

Description

We use the single _ in a property name if the property is meant for internal use, like _hiddenBeforeDateTime. This is basically the same for the title property which we use for giving content elements a recognizable name in the backend. But this should not conflict with a custom content type made by a user which needs a title property.

My suggestion would be to rename title to _title

I disagree, we use "_" for direct properties of the TYPO3CR Nodes. As long as not all TYPO3CR Nodes get a get/setTitle method, we should not rename it.

couldn't this somehow conflict with custom content types? Or will we then just reuse the value as the 'internal' title?
