Subject:	Package keys without a dot break site generation
Description
Since the composer integration a package key without a dot is technically valid. The kickstarter depends on a dot being present, though and generates invalid Sites.xml if the dot is not found.

[BUGFIX] Fall back to full package key if no dot present

Since the composer integration a package key without a dot is technically valid. The site kickstarter depended on a dot being present and generates invalid Sites.xml if the dot is not found.

This change adds a check and falls back to using the package key for the site node name if needed.
