As this wasn't merged to the final 6.0 yet I'll take care of that one. Will add an own icon for update script (and therefore an own Controller and take care about compat layer for old extensions)

- Introduce new class naming: namespace + class ExtensionUpdate
- Maybe we should add an interface for that as well to make sure `access()` and `main()` function ~~> isAccessible() and render() are always part of the class~~

Compat mode for `ext_update` -> register own extensionmanager cache and rewrite old files to have an extension depending class which can be loaded by em

Sounds cool, but now make it a too big change :)

Nicole, your idea is good, but I would proceed in 2 steps. The first one is to restore support for the update script in the new EM, which is really an important feature (it's a wonder how it could be forgotten). A second step would be to improve this as you suggest. It is indeed an area which needs to be cleaned up, but I would apply such change only to 6.1.
