Subject:	RTE linking to file doesn't prevent deleting it
Description	I have searched the bug tracker but couldn't find a issue for this. Take a clean installation (i.e. the current introduction package), take an image and create a link to it using the bodytext field of a normal text CE. The link uses a syntax like ie. file:832 which is the UID of the actual sys_file. <ol style="list-style-type: none"><li>1. Therefore no sys_file_reference is created, which makes it possible to delete the original file via filelist without any warning.</li><li>2. The file is deleted but the sys_file database record remains and doesn't have the deleted flag set. This results in: Frontend &amp; Backend still showing a valid link to a file (which doesn't exists anymore). The typolink in the frontend is rendered with full name and path, but when you click it (to download it) you get a fatal error, because the actual file isn't there anymore.</li><li>3. So i tried setting the missing deleted flag via database, which then results in fatal erros in the link wizard and frontend reporting they can't find a file for the given UID (#1317178604: No file found for given UID.)</li></ol> Is this issue known and maybe already fixed? Is there any reason why the actual file is not referenced via a sys_file_reference? The bodytext should then have a link like filereference:12 (UID of sys_file_reference which then leads to the original sys_file)

- Status changed from New to Needs Feedback

I am unable to reproduce this issue with current master. After setting a link to a file in the RTE, the reference shows in the file list (through reference index) and deleting it is refused.
