[FEATURE] Add recursiveSubmodules option to GitCheckoutTask

In some cases it is necessary to prevent git from checking out submodules recursively during a Surf deployment in which composer is not used. If the option "recursiveSubmodules" is set to false, only the submodules directly referenced in the base repository are fetched and checked out.

If the option is not set, or set to true, all submodules are fetched and checked out recursively. Therefore, the default behaviour does not change.

The unit tests adds a new possibility to match commands by a regular expression to test for the absence of a --recursive flag.
