| Subject: | Possiblity to register callback on importand Neos events | | | |

Description

For websites relying on JS, it would be great to be able to register callbacks in Neos, to be notified when certain event happens. Most important when Neos reloads content, but other events would be something like

- content reload
- switch to preview mode
- switch back from preview mode
- selecting / editing a node
- unselecting a node

This could be done by triggering traditional jQuery events on the document object.

[FEATURE] Trigger externally observable events on important actions

Trigger custom events that external site-specific JavaScript can listen on whenever important events happen in Neos.
Currently event are triggered on the following actions

- PageReload
- EnablePreview
- DisablePreview
- NodeSelected
- NodeUnselected
- ContentModuleLoaded
