Subject:	Backend / workspace interface does not load when using subfolder of webroot

Description

When testing NEOS (alpha6) without defined vhost but using some webroot subfolder (for example: domain.com/neos/Web) the backend interface to edit and manage page is not loaded after login - user is just redirected to domain.com/@user-foo.html when it should be for example domain.com/home@user-foo.html

There was also problem with redirection after login (when not using webroot as an installation place for NEOS) but this was already fixed in one of the latest patches.

[BUGFIX] Neos does not work correctly if not installed in docroot

If Neos is hosted in a subfolder of the document root the integrator has to set the the RewriteBase to /subfolder/Web/. If this is done the rewrite to /@user-<username>.html redirects to the wrong page.

Besides that the menu points to the wrong location for the content module, and the full backend interface is not loaded if the site is put in a subfolder 'neos' because then the isBackendModule() check fails.
