Even though an Ember implementation is available I think we should be careful about choosing this option. It does of course make it easier to integrate with Ember, but the quality and features are far from that of Chosen. And we're now moving from Chosen to Select2, because the feature set of Chosen is too limited. If we go with the Ember option I'm certain that we will find quite some issues we'll have to fix ourselves, e.g. browser issues, styling issues etc. Also we'd have to extend it and overwrite stuff and add features ourselves..

So personally I think Chosem is not really a viable option as it is currently.

I agree, and currently prefer to build a ember wrapper for Select2 agreed, Select2 is currently the most viable option
