Subject:	No placeholder attribute in backend forms
Description
The disposal of the placeholder feature in backend forms needs to be enabled using the mode setting "useOrOverridePlaceholder" in TCA. However, the implementation for checking this needs to be inverted, since it returns an empty string if it's enabled, but should be the opposite way instead.
How to reproduce:
<ul style="list-style-type: none">- enter a title for a file in the file backend module- create a new content element (text w/image) and assign that file- after enabling the override mode, the input field should show the placeholder (using the HTML5 placeholder attribute)
How it should look like (but does not currently):

[BUGFIX] No placeholder attribute in backend forms

The disposal of the placeholder feature in backend forms needs to be enabled using the mode setting "useOrOverridePlaceholder" in TCA. However, the implementation for checking this needs to be inverted, since it returns an empty string if it's enabled, but should be the opposite way instead.
