Subject:	Inconsistent hasProperty method for files
Description	The hasProperty() method defined in the AbstractFile class is not valid for instances of the real File object. Since the real File is also looking in its metaDataProperties the hasProperty() method should also checks these when it tries to determine if a property exists. Currently hasProperty() would return FALSE, even if the requested property is available in the meta data.

[BUGFIX] hasProperty ignores meta data properties

Since the split of sys_file to sys_file_metadata the data is stored in different arrays. The hasProperty method of AbstractFile is not overridden in File to consider that change.
