Subject:	TCEMAIN.clearCacheCmd does not trigger
Description
the deletion of a (tt_news-) record does not trigger TCEMAIN.clearCacheCmd, although deletion is quite an important change to any record in my oppinion.
problem occurs with: typo3 6.2.0

Please update to 6.2.4 and try again. There have been hundreds of bugfixes between 6.2.0 and 6.2.4.

#2 - 2014-08-25 14:20 - Andreas Rothenhäuser

Tried it again with 6.2.4 with same output.

The problem here is, that the DataHandler fails to fetch the TSconfig of the page, where the record originally resided. DataHandler::processClearCacheQueue() calls BackendUtility::getTSCpid($table, $uid, "") which does not return a PID. It internally relies on BackendUtility::getTSconfig_pidValue(), which tries to load (the just deleted) record and fails to do so.

This is a regression to #52235

Sorry I missed the description:

I set up a minimal "enviroment" with tt_news and TYPO3 6.2.12

My pagetree

[0]Home page

I put some news record in "[13]News folder" and they become visible in FE when I set on the TSConfig field of "[13]News folder":

TCEMAIN.clearCacheCmd=9,14

Do you think I should do something else to reproduce the issue? Do you still experience it? Or it could be closed?

Thank you for your feedback

Riccardo, this is about deleting a record.

Sorry, I read in a rush :)

While reading the source, moving a record have also an issue, only destination gets cleared.
