The test getFieldDefinitionsFileContentHandlesMultipleWhitespacesInFieldDefinitions fails on Windows systems because the expected and actual array have a different array key for the table name. On run time within the code tables names are set explicit to lower cases.

[BUGFIX] Failing unit test in SqlSchemaMigrationServiceTest

Currently the test for handling multiple white spaces within the sql field definitions fails on Windows systems because of a different key for the table name within the expected and actual array. This is caused by a strict lowercase converting in the code for Windows systems. As the table name is irrelevant for the test itself, this patch simply converts table name to lower case.
