Hey Simon,

I just wanted to ask what the current status on this issue is. Do you have any open questions, or is there anything we can do to support you solving this issue? You'll find us in the usual Jabber chatroom.

Thanks in advance for a short status!

Greets,
Sebastian

Hi Sebastian,
oh i was waiting that you assign this issue to me. I have not yet done anything so far.

OK; I guess this was a miscommunication then :-) If you want, feel free to work on the patch, and upload it here.

If you have any questions, just ask us!

Sebastian

Hi Sebastian,

can you please assign this issue to me so that i have it on my start page and other people know, that i am doing this job?

can somebody tell me why this ticket has moved to somebody else now?

#13 - 2010-08-27 16:12 - Robert Lemke

Hi Simon.

We discussed this during one of the daily scrums. This task was scheduled for the last Sprint but wasn't finished. At the start of each new sprint we assign tasks again.

If you think that you can work on it during this sprint, I'll gladly assign it back to you.

it would have been nice to read that line in the last update (assign). it took me a while to get in contact with Sebastian. i wanted to implement this in the next 1 or 2 weeks.

since i am not "in the code" already for weeks now, it is quite hard to make the first step since ExtJS is quite difficult, especially the way it is used in Phoenix.

It would be nice to have a "partnership" with somebody whom i can ask quickly if i am stuck. Or is the chatroom in jabber the best place for that?

#15 - 2010-09-01 19:29 - Simon Schaufelberger

Can I still do that work or has Christopher started already?

#16 - 2010-09-02 10:00 - Christopher Hlubek

Hi Simon,

go ahead if you want to work on that task.

Greetings,

Christopher

Simon, feel free to contact me if you need help with the PHP side of things.

#18 - 2010-09-02 16:24 - Simon Schaufelberger

Hi Karsten,

PHP is my strength, it's more ExtJS where i need help and the structure of how things work (together).

Have just cloned all the files and i am ready to start now ;)

Are you also available for ExtJS questions?

- File 8691.patch added

Attached a patch (use git apply to get the binary stuff) that adds a delete icon. If there was something on the server side it would even work.

Now, the height is obviously too high, the confirmation should have a dark red background instead of grey and the buttons should be on the left.

If the page was actually deleted refreshing is nonsense, so there should be a redirect to the page one level up I'd say.

So Karsten, have you finished the job already or is there still something to do? I am just looking at your patch trying to understand what you have done.

No, as pointed out in my last comment there are still some issues left...
